

BOOK BARN

A program of Sedgwick County Farm Bureau Agricultural Association to increase ag-literacy in local elementary schools

SEDGWICK COUNTY FARM BUREAU®
AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION
The Voice of Agriculture®

Food, fuel, clothing, medicine and housing are just a few of the ways we rely on agriculture. Showcasing the importance of agriculture and promoting awareness of agriculture's significance to our county and community is part of Sedgwick County Farm Bureau's mission. We believe that educating our students about the value of agriculture and how it impacts their lives makes for better informed consumers and citizens. We are excited to share with your school an opportunity to reach and teach students about agriculture in a hands-on way. Join Sedgwick County Farm Bureau in building agriculture literacy in our local community by receiving a gift of a Book Barn at your school!

With the help of local sponsors and FFA chapters, Sedgwick County Farm Bureau aims to fill Book Barns with books about agriculture and place them in elementary schools in Sedgwick County.

Each Book Barn bookcase will be filled with books about farming and agriculture. Book Barns will be on wheels making them easy to move/store as needed as well as allowing them to travel to different classrooms!

Sedgwick County Farm Bureau is partnering with local FFA chapters to build and decorate the Book Barns. Each Book Barn will be stocked with 15 books appropriate to elementary students; these titles will represent agriculture production that thrives in our county and state. For schools that also include middle school grades, we will include additional books targeted at that reading audience.

Thank you for being part of this project with Sedgwick County Farm Bureau!
